

Madoff: From posh penthouse to tiny jail cell

NEW YORK—BERNARD MADOFF WENT from a $7-million penthouse to a tiny jail cell with cinderblock walls and fluorescent lights after confessing he carried out what may be the biggest fraud in Wall Street history to escape the pain of the 2008 recession.

The change in lifestyle for the 70-year-old financier was welcomed Thursday by angry investors who packed into a federal courtroom to watch Madoff plead guilty to cheating nearly 5,000 investors out of billions of dollars.

Ex-wife hits 'womanizing,' son sorry for pa; both deny any role in Legacy

By Christina O. Arellano

HE ROSE ALONE, WITHOUT US. HE goes down alone, without us. He declared the ex-wife of Legacy founder Cesar de los Angeles yesterday as she denied any involvement in his business that are now the subject of investigation for being allegedly steeped in fraud.

Being multiple times—like her husband—following the collapse of the Legacy Group, Ma. Concepcion Padilla-De los Angeles and son Martin Nolasco came out to speak to the media to clear their names.

Ma. De los Angeles' lawyer, Howard Gallego, said his client broke her silence after her son was mentioned at the Senate hearing into the troubled power industry, including the Legacy Consolidated Power Inc.

Nolasco, 28, was mentioned as an accomplice of Legacy and allegedly the one who sold a P5-million house and lot in Parangal City that was supposedly acquired by Senators and the change Commission Commissioner Juan Marasigan, who is now reportedly gifted it to his son.

Mother and son are facing a total of nine cases, seven of them against Nolasco. The cases involve speculated deals and violation of the Securities Regulation Code.

P1.3-B poll automated machines lying idle

By Kristian L. Alano

HUNDREDS ARE BEING FOR THE automation of the 2009 elections, but unknown to the general public, there are 1,065 automated machines lying idle in a Manila warehouse since January 2004.

Five years after the Supreme Court ruled the Commission on Elections (COMELEC) to automate the 2004 polls, the Comelec is moving to force the company to take ownership of the malfunctioned counting machines by abandoning them in the West-Lite warehouse.

The decision is expected to bolster the Comelec's suit against the company, which insists that the contract was abandoned and that the poll body was obligated to pay to kill the machines.

The Manila Regional Trial Court is the scene of the legal battle between the Comelec (which wants the company to return the P1.03 billion it had paid for the machines) and Mega Pacific (which is demanding COLLOSAL WASTE REVISITED While the legal battle continues between the Comelec and Mega Pacific re: elections, 1,065 automated counting machines have been in storage for the past five years at the West-Lite warehouse where rental costs the Comelec P30 million per year. It plans to transfer some to election gear and other archival materials to the poll office where storage is cheaper. But the Comelec is adamant on leaving behind the machines for Mega Pacific to take back or pay for their upkeep.

Islamic conference: We can't wait forever

SAIDING IT CANNOT WAIT FOREVER, the powerful Organization of the Islamic Conference (OIC) has called for the full implementation of the 1996 peace pact between the Philippines and Moro rebels, and declared it "cannot continue to participate" in a process that would give Muslims

Islam.

OIC Secretary-General Ekmeleddin Ihsanoglu urged the call at a closed-door, bipartisan meeting among representatives of the Arroyo administration, the Moro National Liberation Front (MNLF) and the OIC, which ended yesterday.

The meeting, held at the Heritage Hotel, was aimed at resolving differences in the implementation of the 13-year-old accord.

In his message read by OIC special envoy Sayyid Bilal-Hajji, Ihsanoglu said it was about time a genuine peace was achieved in the southern Philippines, 21 years after the signing of the Tripoli Accord ending the grant of autonomy to Filipino Muslims.

"This is a very long time by any standards, and a very long wait for the Bangsamoro people," Ihsanoglu said.

DOJ claims 2 more witnesses to killing

By Norman Bordadora

TWO CITIZENS HAVE COME forward claiming knowledge of the double murder of publicist Salvador "Baby" Dacer and his driver, Immanuel Corbis in 2000, according to Justice Secretary Raul Gonzales.

In a news forum yesterday, Gonzales ordered the two citizens to testify that they had collected the blood used to burn the bodies. Authorities have recovered the charred remains in a remote village in Ibadag, Cebu.

Gonzales backed the credibility of the persons offering new information on the twin killings in anticipation of former Senator Josep. Cesar Mazon's extradition from the United States and the disclosure of the contents of his affidavit purportedly implicating prominent persons.

Step down and save face, Chiz tells Merci

By Michael Lee Libano

THE OFFICE OF COMMISSIONER MERCI M. Gutierrez will only resign in "hot glory" if she steps down in October as mandated by the Commission, says Francis "Chiz" Gutierrez said yesterday.

"She should wait until the year is over, then resign," said the former governor of the Philippines, who is elected by the Commission with powers to prosecute corrupt government officials and their private efforts.

"I do not intend to engage the Gutierrez team in a long and expensive legal battle. Just wait the year out. The Commission will do, when it is ready, but it is already being talked with legalizing, financing and such, must be given the chance to reform itself," the senator said.

"And this is one viable option for her and the Commission. They should not wait too long," Gutierrez added.

On Wednesday, Gutierrez, a member of the Judicial and Bar Council, filed a writ of mandamus to pressure Gutierrez to resign in case impeachment proceedings against her fail in the administrative-oversight House of Representatives.

The civil society wants Gutierrez impeached for allegedly refusing to prosecute officials in the Police Reforms.

Gutierrez cited a 1995 Supreme Court in 1995, which says that "in case the Gutierrez Commission resigns, the Office of the Commission shall serve as an advisory Commission until a new Commission shall have been appointed by a full vote."

He also noted that when Gutierrez resigned in 2005, then President Gloria Arroyo named Gutierrez as an advisory Commission until a new Commission shall have been appointed by a full vote.

"The administrative rule and in Republic v. Imperial, which was issued in 1993, has been consistently applied in recent cases, in 2000 and 2004, concerning officials' resignations," said the senator.

He said that in 2008, the Supreme Court dismissed the writ of Habeas Corpus issued by Gutierrez to force the Civil Service Commission to publish Gutierrez as an appointee, having succeeded her predecessor's resigned post.

In 2008, the high court likewise ruled in the same manner that then Philippine President, then-Governor General Macapagal Arroyo should only serve as an acting president of the Philippines until a new president is elected.

"But case law shows that, as a matter of state administration, the resignation of an official during his term and the appointment of a replacement do not divide the term into a term and a disqualification," he explained.

NIA chief fires back: There's nothing to probe

By ST Cabanag

THE NATIONAL DISCREETIONARY AUTHORITY (NDA) yesterday said there was nothing for the Congress to investigate in the P1.5-billion expansion of the Manila Expressway project because it has been awarded to a contractor.

NIA administrator Carlos Salas made the statement in reaction to a call by Congressman Raul Sison to investigate the award of the project to a contractor.

Salas said that the NIA had already selected the qualified participants and the qualified participants were below the budget set by the NIA.

"The budget set by the NIA could change anything and even say that the bid was supposedly lower than the qualified bids, and actually would have been the bid for the project," he said.

"There is no integrity to speak of in the first place when the project has yet to be awarded to any of the qualified bidders," he said.

Salas also said that the NIA had already selected the qualified participants and the qualified participants were below the budget set by the NIA.

Lopezes sell Meralco; PLDT, SMC gird for battle

The deal is expected to set the stage for a fierce battle for control of Manila between the telecommunications giant led by himself, V. Pangloss and the local media conglomerate owned by Eduardo Cojuangco.

Son Miguel, which is diversifying into infrastructure and heavy industry, has built up a large holding in Manila since last year, which is expected to be sold in October, according to its financial and management representatives. It has also established some allies in Manila, some of whom are in the power elite.

Son Miguel has today signed a deal to acquire 27 percent of Meralco, which is expected to be sold in October, according to its financial and management representatives. It has also established some allies in Manila, some of whom are in the power elite.

The acquisition of a stake in Meralco constitutes a strategic move for PLDT group that could lead to significant opportunities for expansion and business synergies and could be seen as a move towards a more integrated telecommunications group, which is expected to be sold in October, according to its financial and management representatives. It has also established some allies in Manila, some of whom are in the power elite.

Hot and getting hotter

TEMPERATURES IN METRO MANILA HIT A month-high of 36.1 Celsius Thursday and could equal even more scorching days ahead.

The reading was taken at around 3 p.m. at the Pagasa Science Center in Marikina, Quezon City.

This is so far the highest temperature recorded for March, according to Hener Abeno of the Philippine Atmospheric, Geophysical and Astronomical Services Administration (PAGASA).

"And it could get hotter," especially when you consider that the heating continues outside of April, meaning you will be warm, said Abeno.

So far, only Tagaytay in the Laguna West, the country's "hottest" spot, recorded only 30 Celsius last Thursday.

In Metro Manila, yesterday, maximum temperature was recorded at 35.8 Celsius, taken at around 3 p.m. at the Science Garden, Marikina Road 34, Marikina.

The highest temperature recorded nationwide was 38.5 Celsius on March 14, 1987.

The record for the highest temperature in the country is 42.2 Celsius recorded on May 11, 1968 in Tagaytay.

The weather bureau warned the public to stay indoors at 10 in the shade during the hours between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. to avoid the common illness associated with extremely high temperatures like dehydration, heat stroke and heat exhaustion.

Pagasa said that summer this year will be "hotter and longer than usual" because of the early start of the hot season.

The summer season officially started on the last week of February and is representative and around the second week of May.

Pagasa said San Jose, Marikina and Marikina will experience steady cloudy days with scattered rain showers and thunderstorms this weekend.

The rest of the country will be partly cloudy to cloudy with isolated rain showers or thunderstorms, mostly in the afternoon or evening.

Panlilio meets anti-'jueteng' body

It was first conference of council in 20 years

CITY OF SAN FERNANDO—Calling it a delayed but decisive move, Gen. Babito Panlilio convened the anti-jueteng council for the first time here yesterday.

The initial meeting drew the top leaders of the Pangasinan Mayor's League (PML), several provincial board members, officials of the Department of Interior and Local Government, provincial and local police chiefs, provincial prosecutors, mayor and leaders of the Pangasinan Anti-Jueteng Council (PAJC).

Panlilio said he should have organized the council as early as 2000 following his election as Executive Order No. 47 on Dec. 30, 2001.

The delay came as the DAJC, Pangasinan Police, Commonwealth and the Philippine National Police did not lend him requests in the last 21 months to get a permanent police division which could help him conduct the watershed cleanup in the province, he said.

Is it 20 years

It was the first time in 20 years that a province convened such a group and mobilized various agencies to launch the first game to battle jueteng and professional bookies.

At about the same time, Manila, based on Senator Ralph Recto's initiative, sent provincial police chief and covered vice chiefs to implement Republic Act 9287 or the revised anti-illegal gambling law.

The assembly began with remarks as Governor Macapagal Arroyo urged the members of the league's members game to be fair and just, he said.

150 guards secure mall vs takeover

Tension still high amid fears city gov't plans to use force

By Beverly T. Manotod

TENSION REMAINS HIGH AT THE DISPUTED EVER GUTTESCO Grand Central Mall as the mall management installed about 150 guards to prevent any impending takeover by the city government of the mall property in Marikina, Calabarzon City.

A new business as usual at the mall as shoppers continue to flock the retail malls in spite of higher security as guards flock the mall locale along Marikina.

Lawyer Simeon Angeles, spokesperson for the Ever Guttesco Group, told inquiries that they have received information that the city government is planning a forceful takeover of the mall and has deployed members of the Special Response and Tactics (SPART) police for the area to carry this out.

"We have deployed 100 guards plus 50 more on standby. This is a tense situation as we have to take every precautionary measure to fight against any illegal takeover," said Angeles.

She added that based on the information they got, the city is also gathering people from the hangovers and are assembling them at the Moco Mall in front of the Grand Central Mall.

According to Angeles, the Ever Guttesco Group has also sought the help of the Marikina Police District to help in the peace and order situation.

Rep. William Lim, Calabarzon governor's chief, said in an interview that about 50 policemen from the Regional Mobile Group were deployed in the Marikina area in maintain peace in the area.

He said the Calabarzon city government has also requested police contingents to remain on the area but had asked that the police guard contingents be equipped from the regional command to not to give an impression of partiality to the city government.

Angeles said lawyers of the Ever Guttesco Group are currently preventing lawsuits against the city government for their "unlawful harassment" of the company and their mall owners.

Angeles said the said Atty. Jorge Limarosa is also preparing a lawsuit against Calabarzon City officials for ignoring and disregarding the injunction issued by the Manila RTC in December 2008, which stopped Calabarzon officials from installing sensors for surveillance of the mall.

Gov't launches new helpline

By Qi Yap

A CENTRAL GOVERNMENT HELPLINE WILL soon provide assistance to Filipinos across the islands who are in need of it, from answering inquiries about where to apply for a passport online to addressing national concerns by telephone.

Under Unit 117, which provides emergency assistance to fires, crimes and other life-threatening situations, the new helpline is to be spearheaded by the Civil Service Commission until enough calls involving incidents threatening lives that are "just emergencies."

"Today we shall bridge the gap between government and the people," said Civil Service Commission (CSC) Secretary General Jose L. Almonte in a project of the National Task Force on Modernizing the Government.

"The idea is to reduce and ease, and to give citizens immediate access to government agencies whenever they have a concern," said Angelo Timoteo de Rivera of the Commission on Information and Communications Technology and director general of the National Computer Center.

For the initial phase of the 2011 rollout project, some 50 call center agents will answer calls and connect them to the concerned agency through video-conferencing protocol technology, de Rivera said. Callers' requests are sorted again by the agent or their calls are directed to the appropriate trouble service agency which then attends to the caller's request, he added.

STILL owners, sales clerks and shoppers may pause the Grand Central shopping mall on Friday, making for the establishment to open.

Everybody loves coffee. From morning to midnight, people can't get enough of this golden, aromatic brew. Coffee is there at the start of the day at work, with clients during an afternoon meeting, all the way after work with friends. Indeed, coffee is more than a drink. It's a way of life.

That's why this March, 988 North EDSA - The Block celebrates our love for coffee in the grandest way. Cofestival is a 24-hour fest for all things coffee. The bag brims from all over the world, expert baristas from all over the country, books and art inspired by the brew - they're all here, all this March.

A Taste of Paris.

The Avenue of The Block will be transformed into a Parisian sidewalk during the festival. Our premier coffee shops are setting up quaint sidewalk cafes for your drinking pleasure. Go people watching while you sit back, relax, and enjoy a cup - just like the French do. It's a European experience, and it all happens up north.

Browse with Brews.

When you go great with coffee! Good books. That's why at the Cofestival, we'll get you 50% off books. We're hosting a Book Fair during the festival and you're sure to find different books that you'd love to browse or bring home. Coffee table books, novels, comics - they're all here. It's another reason to come over and celebrate the festival.

The Art of Coffee.

Coffee making is an art, so drop by our Art Exhibit and marvel at the paintings and photos that were inspired by coffee. These exhibits make coffee not just good to drink, but great to watch as well.

Hot Coffee. Cool Sounds.

Chill out and relax as different bands give a different flavor and sound to the Cofestival. Get ready to kick off the festival with performances from La Escuela de Samba Manila Guinanan, Eileen Siver, and Acoustic Jive. Then, get a taste of jazz, swing and big band as the Bembol Ruckman performs a 2-night concert. Next on the list is Acoustic Escape - the group that helps you unwind with Soul and Bossanova music. And get ready to lift your spirits with the Bomb Murders - one of the hottest names in hip band jazz.

Three different bands, three more reasons to come back to the Cofestival again and again.

The Brew That's Good For You.

Coffee lovers, rejoice! Not only does your favorite brew wake you up and keep you energy high the entire day, a cup a day makes your mind alert, helps enhance your memory, and even helps delay the signs of aging. That's a lot more reasons to drink coffee and keep on coming back to the festival.

BPI Family sees consumer lending growth of 10%

By David C. Shumaker

FIFTY FIFTY SAVINGS BANK aims to grow its customer lending this year by at least 10 percent, despite a looming global economic meltdown.

At the launch of BP's Family Fund's first nationwide "Kiss Me" program Thursday night, bank president William Fisher told the bank's officers there was money available among customers and investors if BP Family would simply give the people a word deal.

The said BY Family could expand its economic holdings—including the state and housing loans portfolio...by 18 percent despite the slump, down to 10.5 percent from current 12.3 percent, a key driver of domestic demand over the years.

Tap facility for gov't IOUs launched

By Kenneth W. Sautter

THE BUREAU OF THE TREASURY (BTB), along with New York Stock Exchange-listed Thomson Reuters, announced the launch of an electronic system that improves the transparency of over-the-counter debt transactions.

Called a tap facility, the system allows government securities (T-bill) dealers (FIBRE) to electronically bid for additional offerings when a secondary market.

Through such electronic modules, the weighing process and the generation of reports will be automated to ease the process of issuing additional securities.

facility would provide the Treasury and CHA more flexibility to offer local debt outside regular section 801.

Also, Puchner says Thomson Super would develop a "fast, reliable and affordable solution" for small players in the market such as insurance companies, rural banks, thrift banks and other financial institutions.

He explained that the planned service would do away with manual transactions because the transactions would send their log and self-instructions electronically to the Registry of Securities Securities at $365.

ROSA is the official electronic ledger that lists the absolute ownership, legal or beneficial, of all interest in treasury bills and bonds.

According to Thomson Reuters, the new tool will enable investors to download their securities account statements directly from the system.

Also, the solution is transparent and cost-efficient and will help minimize inventory exposure to the risks of manual processing of transactions.

Jan. remittances rose despite global crisis

By Michelle K. Rano

Preliminary figures encouraging, says central bank

MANILA, Cebu City ABROAD have led to projections of a decline in remittances this year, the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas said in a report to believe that money sent by Philippine overseas workers is slower overall growth in January 2009 compared to that of December 2008.

According to BSP Deputy Governor Siran Guingabato, preliminary figures from several of banks revealed that remittances registered a year-on-year growth in the month of January. He said the growth came about 1.5 percent from the 0.2 percent annual rise to $1.1 billion.

For the entire 2008, remittances stood at $11.4 billion, up 13.7 percent year-on-year.

"Since employment can't be doing and local figures from a few banks were encouraging, there is reason to believe that probably remittances in January will be beyond the level seen in December," Guingabato told reporters yesterday on the sidelines of the annual conference of the remittance workers in Manila, where he served as one of the speakers.

Guingabato said it is true that many overseas Philippine laborers have lost jobs in the wake of the global crisis, but he added that the impact of the crisis on remittances was offset by the opening up of new job markets.

Although the Philippine Overseas Employment Administration (POEA) reported that an estimated 2,000 Filipinos have lost their jobs from October to February in Korea and Taiwan, Guingabato said the agency likewise reported an increase in demand for Filipino workers in Canada, Australia and the Middle East.

"While [Philippine workers] lost markets in some countries, they gained new ones. Despite the crisis, Filipinos always manage to find jobs abroad," he said.

He also said there were over a million Filipinos deployed to work abroad last year, and that could be a source of comfort that remittances would continue to be strong this year. Filipinos working overseas annually have contracts of at least two years, he said.

Under the official record of the BSP for the year, remittances would amount to $11.4 billion by the end of 2009, the same level as that recorded in 2008.

This increase is a downward revision from the earlier projection of a 5-10 percent growth. The BSP said the lower outlook took into account the impact of the worsening economic situation in the United States and Europe, where many Filipino workers are based.

The BSP stressed, however, that even if remittances growth would slow this year, $1.4 billion is substantial enough to support consumption, which is a key driver of the country's recovery.

Guingabato said that despite the global crisis, the BSP does not see a significant risk of a decline in remittances this year from last year's level because of demand for workers in other parts of the world.

Gates have said that the large number of overseas Filipino workers is an indication of the lack of job opportunities in the country. Nonetheless, the government has been supportive of deployment of Filipino workers as one way to ease unemployment problems.

Remittances serve as key driver of the economy as they highly influence household consumption. The figures that are not on one hand, is used in local investments.

eTelecare bags deal with US firm

MANILA, Cebu City TELEHEALTH eTelecare Global Solutions Inc. has inked an agreement with United States-based Mednet managing device maintenance for the provision of remote patient support services.

In a regulatory filing, the company said the deal centered on provision of consumer care, technical support and device maintenance services to Peak's customers.

The services, to be performed via email, chat and voice, will be delivered from one of eTelecare's delivery centers in the United States.

By its ability to deliver these services to Peak's clients, eTelecare said it had implemented a multidisciplinary, integrated customer relationship management solution, complete with a comprehensive knowledge management, a real-time chat support system.

"eTelecare's portfolio of services delivers cost-effective delivery and quality of service for our clients. Our deep domain knowledge developed through years of customer experience, especially in the consumer services industry, is a competitive advantage that helps our clients succeed," eTelecare president and chief executive John Hertz said.

It is in the course of what it claims to be the world's first e-mail-only mobile device, which allows its customers to stay connected to the wireless email and text messaging.

"Our goal is to achieve the very best in customer service. eTelecare, with its wealth of experience, its commitment to a full spectrum of customer interaction services, will be instrumental in helping us achieve our goal. By partnering with a company, we are ensuring that the entire Peak customer experience, from the initial visit to after-sales support, is outstanding," Peak's founder and chief executive David Jones said.

eTelecare currently has more than 11,000 employees in the Philippines, the United States and Malaysia.

In Philippine delivery centers, which house 80 percent of its total employees, are strategically located in different parts of Metro Manila, including EDSA City, Makati, Alabang and Mandaluyong. It also has one center in Cebu and one in Pangasinan, within the United States territory in Clark.

A-CONTRACTOR's worker was seen hammering on an overhead railway system project. Foreign investment flows into the Philippines plunged 67.5 percent from a year earlier to $1.1 billion in 2008 amid the global crisis, according to the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas.

ADB to fund renewable energy firms

By Amy R. Rano

MANILA, Cebu City RENEWABLE The Asian Development Bank and its development partners are working on a facility that would provide seed capital for renewable energy and energy efficiency projects in the Asia-Pacific region.

In a statement, the ADB said it would develop the Seed Capital Asia initiative facility that would be initially funded by a $4.5-billion grant from the United Nations Development Program (UNDP) and the World Bank.

Established in 1995 to help developing countries fund projects that protect the global environment, the seed capital initiative facility would be jointly managed by ADB and United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP).

According to the ADB, the facility would provide technical assistance to promote energy lead managers and entrepreneurship to develop sustainable clean energy funds and financing for the early stages of such projects, aimed at the cross of development and transactions, and encourage taking wider portfolios through a seed capital crisis on harmonized offered on a per-project basis.

It further noted that the facility would increase access to financing at the early stages of sustainable energy projects and projects around the Asia-Pacific region.

With increased experience among investors in investing in small-scale renewable energy and energy efficiency projects, sustainable energy investment should be encouraged to invest more in clean energy enterprises and projects, it added.

"The facility will play a role in supporting a number of clean energy private equity funds in which ADB invests," the ADB said.

In the Philippines, the Department of Energy is fast-tracking the completion of the rules and regulations governing the Renewable Energy Act of 2008 to attract more investments in the sustainable energy sector.

Manila-based, 100% energy efficiency and management business, energy and power companies are working on the same. Lanza and Hapag are now power development projects, and central Luzon and Visayas for biomass.

BIR tries hand at mentoring small firms

By Vincent Calalang
Bureau Manila Bureau

MANILA, Cebu City THE BUREAU OF INTERNAL REVENUE has found ways that small-scale businesses will get up to the point where people try to acquire their rights in the light of the global recession.

In the first two months, 2,000 new cases were filed with a combined 17 million in tax due, according to statistics on February 14, 2009, BIR Commissioner General Lito T. Tan said.

This suggests that the recently unemployed and workers reporting to be laid off are investing in small businesses to survive, Tan said.

But the BIR wants to make sure that these businesses become well to assist the government of tax revenues, thus it has launched on a business training program to assist the new enterprises, he said.

Monitoring small-scale enterprises or micro and business strategies, Tan said, "including basic suggestions as to where a business might be located on a new business owner's behalf."

He said the BIR had been asked to call on more since this year to handle the government's poverty alleviation and job creation programs.

RP market to get taste of export goods

MANILA, Cebu City THE Department of Trade and Industry said it would launch a program to help small businesses in the export market.

"This event is a good opportunity for the domestic market to get a taste of export goods at reduced prices," the DTI said, adding that this was part of its ongoing efforts to help local exporters expand their reach.

According to the DTI, exhibitors expected to include those involved in such and such, garments, holiday goods, electronics, mobile accessories, home appliances and more. Other exhibitors include, home appliances, furniture, home appliances, and gift items.

In terms of visitors and buyers, the DTI expects those from institutional entities such as hotels, restaurants, transport providers, construction and contractors and individuals to visit the trade fair.

"Known for their unique design and excellent craftsmanship, the Philippine exporters exhibiting in the DTI Exporters' Expo will showcase and offer local buyers their own home inventory. Only the combination of domestic items and selected foreign goods will make this event a success," the DTI said.

Helping the DTI attract the trade fair, which is the theme of Export Trade, the DTI is also working with the Trade Representative Office in Manila and the Philippine Trade Training Center.

Local exporting demand from abroad, local exporters are seeking the government help in the export market.

In an earlier version, House Assistant Speaker for the Philippine House (Bongson) said the government could reduce its own foreign exchange to export to prevent them from being sold abroad.

These included the release of the P1-billion Export Promotion Fund, which President Arroyo had "approved in principle."

Wages stable in BPOs amid global turmoil

By Alvin L. Ho

WORKERS IN THE BUSINESS PROCESS outsourcing sector are assured of stable wages this year, even amid the global recession, but they should not expect salaries to increase much.

"Over today, chief executives of the Business Process Association of the Philippines, said the wage situation in the local BPO sector had been 'stable and flat' these past two years, and that some trend should be maintained this year.

"The general wage scenario is pretty much stable," he said. "We at least have a provision wage structure in BPO, with companies paying more to experienced workers."

However, the BPO sector might be able to maintain an adequate supply of qualified labor to prevent "wage inflation."

"There's a provision in specialized areas such as engineering, architecture and [information technology]. Our labor force should be not in too much risk, as we have been hiring enough supply for qualified personnel" to proper to workers of the recession, at least new jobs could be expected.

"There will be new jobs, BPO is still a leading player in the labor market, so we can have a bigger pool of BPO employees," he said.

Generally, however, and local firms are keen on hiring labor for the area, despite the recession, however, according to the latest data. "There are international business figures."

The report stated that 75 percent of local executives predict and they would likely take wages above the rate. However, the rate of at least 10 percent to live with the economic outlook.

Another 22 percent said they would not pay any pay rise, and only 2 percent said they would slash wages.

These numbers are rather close to those in other countries, the survey revealed, as only 10 percent of all business leaders predict globally and they expected to cut wages above the rate of inflation.

Annual 21 percent said salaries should cut the rate in 2009, and 2 percent said pay rise were possible.

SALARIES in the local business process outsourcing sector will remain stable, and may even rise, this year despite the global recession, according to the industry's umbrella organization.

"We need to maintain our productivity," it's a balancing act between paying the right wages and ensuring competitiveness with other countries," he said.

"We need to maintain our productivity," it's a balancing act between paying the right wages and ensuring competitiveness with other countries," he said.

Catalina Chua, president of the Philippine Business Association of the Philippines (PBAP), said that while BPO sector wages were not likely to go up this year, "we should be able to maintain our productivity," it's a balancing act between paying the right wages and ensuring competitiveness with other countries," he said.

Ways to make developers survive crisis

By Tess R. Salazar

LAST WEEK, INCORPORATED PROPERTY started a series that re-opened on Global Property Guide (tagline the alarm bells that "Asia is no longer insulated" from the financial crisis originating from the West).

Proof that real estate has landed on our shores as early as late 2008 is evident in Global Property Guide's survey of publicly-available house-price time-series for 2008, which showed prices declining steadily and soon from a global perspective, the downturn is still accelerating.

Timely suggestions

So what can developers do to stay afloat and competitive during these times? Peter Christian-Cruz, CFP, senior economist, provides some timely suggestions:

- Developers can provide cheaper housing units by concentrating on certain locations such as green, function-hall and swimming pools. Middle and working-class households are more concerned with basic necessities such as access to public markets, schools, churches and public transport.

- While the provision of ample parking space is welcome, developers must focus on accessibility by ensuring that houseboats can reach their houses quickly and safely even if they use public transport. Many property firms develop cheap and affordable housing units located in nearby provinces such as Iloilo, Bulacan, Cebu and Laguna where commuting time takes 2 or 3 hours to reach commercial hubs in Metro Manila.

- Developers must boost the buying capacity of working and middle-class families. The international standard for affordable housing is 3 to 5 times the annual income. This implies that the average who earns P30,000 a month, an affordable house for him/her should not be more than P90,000 and P600,000.

- Developers can explore the potential offering units to owners before the property is launched. Instead of relying on long-term payments (from overseas Filipinos pay in cash or installments divided over 1 to 2 years), developers get a continuous income stream for 10 to 20 years through a rent-to-own scheme.

One way also used in how "rent-to-own" the Philippine housing loan has been, with developers focusing mainly on overseas Filipinos while largely ignoring an enormous local demand from the locally employed middle-class and working-class sector. Now that the demand from overseas Filipinos was waning, an example of sound units could be "rent-to-own" to local buyers.

Blowing in disguise?

Atencio R. Malabon, president of the National Real Estate Association, said that, in his view, he has not heard of any considerable price drop (except Property) reported last month due, according to CFC report, price 3-to-4 bedroom condo prices in Manila fell 2 percent in 2008 even as 11 percent rise during 2007.

"These data may have been based on resale units from owners (not developers) who had to make profit/loss," Malabon said.

He added, "The US is the which started in 2008 was a housing in disguise which caused the construction of more new high-rise projects in the down than we experienced a year, which is actually happening all ready in some areas where you have the stock of residential units due for completion this year up to 2012."

According to Malabon, the 10 to 15 units also make developers, sometimes their plan to build high-rise buildings (which takes 3 to 5 years to complete) in favor of real-estate projects which they could turn over within a year, and thus mitigate their income in their hands. "It's a good thing that the implementation of this new increasing reporting standard was deferred until 2011," he said.

"Another reason the financial crisis came at an almost perfect timing is that banks were already getting to be very ap-

DMCI Homes offers first-rate amenities at Mahogany Place 3

THE COMMUNITY AMENITIES OF A first-class development is an important consideration for homebuyers, and this latest addition of all these amenities are compared to other choices on the way the developer is building.

In many mid-Victorian, amenities for entertainment and recreation are very basic. A resident has to make do with a multi-purpose clubhouse, swimming pool, basketball court and playground. However, a discerning buyer seeking only premium amenities on his investment will not settle for anything less. The amenities available at this choice development should also meet his needs for entertainment, recreation, family entertainment and private relaxation. These include premier amenities and services, similar to those offered in exclusive country clubs.

Exclusive residential enclave

This is the latest addition to the entertainment and recreation amenities offered at Mahogany Place 3, the exclusive residential enclave being developed by DMCI Homes on an 80-acre site in Taguig City. This development has been master-planned to be a low-density, luxury, landscaped community. Only 200 units will be built in this eight-hectare property to give residents the much-given space and privacy surroundings which make it an ideal place to raise a family.

DMCI Homes' project architect Frank E. Chiribid said the amenities offered at this development should have a central location, as well as access to the different areas of the community. However, for Mahogany Place 3, DMCI Homes has raised the bar for the amenities to offer.

Each time a new area of the Mahogany Place 3 offers a wide range of amenities, it's designed to be a premier residential facilities," said Chiribid. "Aside from the basic features of an amenities complex, we have introduced various new amenities not found in other DMCI Homes' properties. Amenities such as the tennis and 20-acre golf course, a large pool of luxury that our market desires," he added.

Amenities available

Amenities available at Mahogany Place 3 are distinguished into indoor facilities and outdoor amenities. The two new clubhouses have been designed to complement the exclusivity of the property. It will have a country club clubhouse—very exclusive and fine club equipment. There will also be clubhouse only, one ready to accept residents and their guests with their needs.

The ground floor of the clubhouse has a service area for possible dining. Most and also one level that has a large swimming in the middle pool so they can see the view from the pool and the beach. There is also a view out on the second floor giving residents a full view of the pool area.

These making a low-key resort would not only enjoy the swimming pool, but also your lawn's content and splash area by the beach by the poolside. The second clubhouse area also has a large ball court where residents can practice their shots. The club can be used with their own tennis or basketball playground. Professional kids will find much to do in the clubhouse.

Weekend delights

On weekends, the facilities can have a barbeque house or dinner at the garden spread throughout the amenities area. The garden area equipped with barbeque pits where food can be grilled in a casual, indoor atmosphere with the clubhouse in the background and a dance studio.

FRANK E. Chiribid, architect of Mahogany Place III

another area in the same, a tennis court and a swimming pool in the same clubhouse. The clubhouse also has a 20-acre mini-disco, another exclusive amenity. Equipped with the latest home theater equipment and fitted with theater-style seats, this facility can serve the room for special occasions. There is also a game room where kids and teens can play billiards, darts or football.

The clubhouse will also have a mini bar, a large pickup truck with a water station, a lounge bar, a lounge bar, and the premium just to meet their daily needs.

Mahogany Place 3 is another major residential development by DMCI Homes, the company's first triple A project in the Philippines that offers modern luxury living facilities optimum value for their money by providing homes with exceptional features and amenities and world standard level of craftsmanship. The company has more than 30 years experience in the construction and development industry.

The Grand Towers: A Dream Investment in the Heart of Manila

The transformation of city living marked by tranquility, privacy and security in the heart of Manila is a reality at The Grand Towers, a beautiful landmark that offers modern luxury living facilities optimum value for their money by providing homes with exceptional features and amenities and world standard level of craftsmanship. The company has more than 30 years experience in the construction and development industry.

Michael Realty Inc., the developer of The Grand Towers, unveiled the first of the two 40-story skyscrapers in the heart of the city, offering owners to start enjoying their new homes and the multitude of amenities that go along with it.

As other developments in and around Metro Manila have slowed down, construction has been brisk at The Grand Towers. The Grand Towers, the first of the two condominium towers, is already giving altitude with the structure already hitting the third-way mark.

The development is actually ahead of schedule. We are confident that before the end of next year, our future homeowners will be comfortably settled in their new residence," says Michael Realty president, Mr. Michael.

Update for the 300-unit construction has also been brisk, according to Michael, with close to 10 percent of the residents already moved in.

"Interest in The Grand Towers is very high. This is likely because The Grand Towers is a prime investment in terms of its location, superior amenities as well as the brand name of the developer. It is a reality of delivering its property developments on schedule," Michael says.

Michael Realty (and) will be offering more construction milestones to existing and potential residents of The Grand Towers during its residents' Day on March 20 at the 1000 Golden Empire Tower at Rizal Boulevard.

Located in Vito Cruz, Manila, the Grand Towers is centrally placed a few minutes drive from the Makati Central Business District and an easy drive from domestic and international airports via Roxas Boulevard.

The Grand Towers is also a short drive away from a number of the country's premier academic institutions like the De La Salle University, the College of St. Benilde and St. Scholastica's College.

Due more to its close proximity to business, academic and commercial centers, The Grand Towers is the only condominium project for this market in Manila that boasts of superior amenities that help provide a respite in the bustling heart of the urban metropolis.

Aside from an outdoor swimming pool, big pool and kids' pool, residents can also enjoy other fitness activities through The Grand Towers jogging path, outdoor fitness station and its fitness center.

Residents live the recreational area where residents can relax at their children's play area at the Kids Outdoor Play Area and the Kids Sand Box. For tennis, badminton, The Grand Towers also has a tennis hall, futsal court and a gym room.

With The Grand Towers, enjoying lifestyle Boulevard and Rizal Boulevard. There are only a few more units remaining at call 522-2875 or email info@thegrandtowers.com to get the chance to be part of The Grand Towers community.

A Super tribute to Francis Magalona

Fans and friends remember The Man From Manila with words, pictures, artworks and songs

Permanent mark

By James Ragan

IT'S PROBABLY NOT THE BIGGEST fan of the Man From Manila, but I would certainly count myself as one of the millions of people who were and are still being influenced by his personality. Through his music, motivation was extended. Being from the hip-hop scene, it was easy to follow his lead because it was too large, easy, or "bigger" to be "moderate" when you have Francis M on your side. He made an unbreakable bond and it is to be Filipino and how we shouldn't be ashamed. He made it easier for us to be small as he is now forever alive.

I received something precious to remember him. I had my own version of the "I'm a man and a boy" tattooed on my back. Two days later, he passed away.

We'll have cold summer nights without you. May you rest in peace. - Joel Cebalano, Ruel Wang and Lisa Wang

Asian resto doubles as a bar

Text and photos by Max Quins

A POK VIBES ADO, AN AG quintessential arrived from out of town. Friends from the neighborhood decided to take her out and show her the nightlife around the South E. in the late city/scene called B1.

Proper, the organizer, mentioned fighting a bar along Agencia Avenue called The Ping, again, for being located in the heart of the neighborhood
in my area, I was a bit disappointed that I've never mentioned it before.

The first thing I noticed about the place was the decor, red walls, Asian inspired decor, modern furniture—a bit appropriate for where it was located.
The gang stayed in the large hall and open air, perfect for those who wanted.

Aside from the house redecorated, there was really nothing significant about the bar, as less than the bar scene around.
However, had noticed black cushions (black black) because it was first in its kind and because as a girl, I loved the bar scene around the bar scene, I thought that more than a bar, the bar scene
in my area, I was a bit disappointed that I've never mentioned it
before.

But because of the bar scene, I decided to go back, and it was during this visit that I realized that more than a bar, the bar scene
in my area, I was a bit disappointed that I've never mentioned it
before.

After checking into the staff and the young owners, I discovered that despite being only five months old, the bar was already earning a loyal following with locals and night owls.

They asked me to visit their place again on Wednesday, a 121 spot on Thursday, 121
Avenue 121. The owners plan to have 121 Nights on Mondays

Secondhand Serenade

Sings the Sweetest Serenade at the Ayala Malls

The kind of singing and strong destination Ayala Malls gives its shopper a special experience with a wide selection of retail and food offerings, convenient mall services and world-class events. As the premier entertainment destination, Ayala Malls has everyone get the best of both worlds again as homegrown talents from popular domestic rock sensation Secondhand Serenade performs live at the Ayala Malls.

An American domestic rock project formed by vocalist and guitarist
John Vesely, Secondhand Serenade originates in Bristol, USA, in 2001 and released their debut album Ayala in 2007 and Ayala in My City in 2008. After much hype about his popular music, he generated over 20 million views in YouTube and became the number one artist on Myspace. John Vesely came from a musical family at San Francisco Bay Area. Starting off as a guitarist for local bands for several years, he had already realized his potential to play on acoustic guitar and began to write his own songs. Secondhand Serenade was actually formed as a reference to the way in which his songs are recorded—acoustic with soft electronic elements.

Recognized worldwide for his soulful sound, Vesely's singing style "I will be" and the lyrics "You Call" have been much talked about. A Titled in My City, Secondhand Serenade will be his return to the scene and guitar with the use of synthesizers and a full band powered by his industry heavyweight producers, Dave Levine
(The End of the World, Angels & Airwaves) and David Winkler (Fall Out Boy and All-American Rejects).

Secondhand Serenade's latest album, Titled in My City, leads off with "Like a Knife" with a tone immediately and for what is a sweet kind of rock—complete with strings, keyboards, drums, and lyrics combined with intense emotion. The track "Water" produced by "Fall in My City" follows, which is one of many tracks featuring Vesely the piano. The remaining tracks are a collection of songs like "Stranger," "Maybe," and the up-tempo "Supposed," benefiting from the sound of a full band, while others like "Why," "Goodbye," and the album's title track all prove to be effective in their respective forms.

All said, Secondhand Serenade's aim to please his supporters, where he notes have helped him to reach the past in his life. In addition, Vesely in my career would be possible without my fans.

Getting on. They are the most important people in terms of any success I have to live with." In for this reason, it's not surprising to keep a personal connection with his fans in his live and performances.

Get into the new chapter of Secondhand Serenade's life with his latest album, Titled in My City, as it takes you through the highs and lows of his life. This, John Vesely is a modern day storyteller, following a path of his own while putting it on a level in his live performances.

Full for Secondhand Serenade's live show at Manila, Catch them live at the Ayala Malls on Saturday, March 28 at Greenbelt 3 Park.

Sunday March 28 at the Triunfo Victory
Center and Monday, March 30 at Ayala Center. Secondhand Serenade Live at Manila is brought to you by the Ayala Malls.

Healing inspires advocacy

Marianne devoted her time watching books for the school library at the Bonanza Village her father founded. Little did she know that her desire to promote reading and literacy would come from its own advocacy. She transformed her son's legacy into the Gig and the Amazon Nantipipula Foundation. She kept her son's library, which is now in the shelter of a fresh new building.
